BETHEL RIDGE.

In fulfillment of a promise made the editor some weeks ago, we will "drop a line" to the INTERIOR JOURNAL, the semi-weekly visit of which we very much enjoy.

On the morning of July 15th we left our home and loved ones in McKinney and started on a ramble in search of a better state of health. Boarding a delayed passenger train on the Q. & C., we soon found ourselves in the business little town of Science Hill. We arrived there in a blinding rain storm and found the citizens rejoicing over the fall, no rain having fallen there for two weeks previous. We spent a day well nigh there, the guest of Mr. Craig Perkins, who was born and reared in Lincoln county and very naturally imbibed her democratic politics. Mrs. Perkins is a Potomacian by birth and is just as naturally a republican with a big if.

There are many evidences of thrift and prosperity about Science Hill. The merchants were busy, the sound of the carpenter's hammer was noticeable on "rising architecture" and the heavy pounding of the blacksmith's sledge could be heard in the shops. Another evidence of thrift was the seeming lavish use of the painter's brush. We never before noticed so many freshly painted houses in an old town. We visited the graded school building and found it glistening with new paint on the outside and undergoing interior repairs. The Christian church had been and was being repaired and painted. J. J. Carr, who occupies the building near the depot, in which Billy Goodwin made a fortune selling goods, is closing out his stock at cost, preparatory to moving to Texas, to the regret of many of his friends.

From Science Hill we went to Mintonville over the worst road we ever attempted to travel when sick. The distance is 12 miles, but it seemed 24 to us. While at Mintonville we stopped with Mr. and Mrs. Matt McClure, whose kindly treatment we shall ever remember with pleasure. There are people "good, gooder, goodest." The McClures are of the superlative class. While in Mintonville we had the pleasure of attending preaching for a week at the Christian church. Rev. John Ware, a relative of McKinney's rising merchant of the same name, conducted the services. Three additions to the church was the result up to Sunday night. The meeting continues this week. We made many new acquaintances and enjoyed the hospitality of some of them. We were royally entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Bad Roy, of the firm of Roy & Jasper, proprietors of the Mintonville Flouring Mills. They could not satisfy themselves in doing for our comfort and pleasure Mrs. Roy and her lovely daughter, Miss Minnie, our great lovers of flowers and their collections will compare with the most elaborate in Lincoln. God bless all ladies who love and cultivate flowers! They are a boon to the weary and make glad the heart in hours of deepest solitude. A good little woman in McKinney who still allows us to call her wife, is passionately fond of them.

The merchants of Mintonville are "away back in the hills" but seem to be prospering. Mr. Tiler Jasper, who has been in business there for 20 years, carries the largest stock and has a good trade. Jeff Blines, his clerk, is one of the best young men we ever met. A. S. Levenson, a prominent Lincoln county boy, has a full store and is doing well. He was nothing, as was his brother Joe, in efforts to aid to our comfort. Bigger hearted men don't live than Abe and Joe Levenson.

Mintonville has two churches, Methodist and Christian. Each have preaching monthly, Sunday school every Sunday morning, but no prayer meeting services.

Mr. John McClure, of McKinney, Miss Mattie Gilliland, of Lexington, and Miss Fionnie Hammonds, of Hobbie, were guests at our host's last week.

While in Mintonville we were saddened by the sudden death of a young man at Canetown, a village four miles further south. On Sunday afternoon Mr. Rufus Weddie called on his sweet-heart, Miss M. Kline, and like many other young men, to his shame, he left written—a revolver in his pocket. In the course of the afternoon Mr. Weddie displayed the murderous weapon and Miss Kline asked to be allowed to look at it. Consent was readily given. The chambers were all empty save one. Miss Kline thinking all were empty, playfully remarked "Mr. Weddie, I believe I'll kill you." "All right," he replied with a smile. Instantly the trigger was pulled, the report of the revolver startled the household and her lover fell mortally wounded at her feet. The fatal missile entered the neck near the Adam's apple and accomplished the mission of death in a short time. The young lady is almost crazed with grief, while the young man's widowed mother is inconsolable. A sad warning indeed, but what young man will heed it and leave off the foolish habit of carrying those deadly weapons in violation of the laws of his country as well as the laws of his conscience.

Before leaving Mintonville we had the pleasure of joining a select party of excursionists to the top of the famous Green River Knob. This knob is about three miles west of Mintonville and, according to State geographical surveyors, is the highest natural elevation in Kentucky. From its top the eye may gaze upon the surrounding beauties of nature spreading out into unlimited space until visionary powers are exhausted. Looking down from its lofty peak the country surrounding appears to be in a basin and the hills to gradually lift themselves one above the other as the river recedes. The farms and farm houses dot the low grounds and table lands, lending to the beauty of the scene. The monster, for such it is, is not precipitous from either side and the level space on top is not over 30 yards in any direction. The ascent from the base is more than a mile, and one in a delicate state of health feels the taxing of his strength perceptibly before he reaches the top, but when once there and he looks out upon the lovely scene below he feels abundantly repaid and like Peter, wants to build there a tabernacle and remain.

Our party consisted of Harry McClure, a chaplain, Miss Mattie Gilliland, of Lexington, Miss Fionnie Hammonds, of Hobbie, Mrs. Lydia Wyland, of Eubanks, Misses Eunice Hinn, Eliza Dye and the Misses Jasper, of Mintonville, Messrs. Terrell Jasper, A. S. Levenson, Oscar McClure, Orie Tarter and Jeff Hines, of Mintonville and Robert Murphy, of Horton, and your correspondent, of all-scattered-around. In the company were two kodaks and six views were made of the party and the scenery, which will be prized as souvenirs of one of the most pleasant excursions spent in Casey or any other county.

We left Mintonville, and our newly made friends Monday Aug. 6, and arrived in the village of Bethel Ridge the same day, stopping with Silas Wesley, the leading merchant, and postmaster of the place. He has a most excellent family and a beautiful and well furnished home. We have had every thing convenient to our comfort tendered us, and with the good eating and the very best water to drink, we are expecting to increase our avoirdupois to something like that of our good friend, Richard Hobbie, and be as strong as Win Hughes, of McKinney, before the frosts come again.

The country about Bethel Ridge is far better than we had supposed. The farms and farm houses are neat and show thrift and prosperity. Many of them have a decided resemblance to some of the well kept farms in the Blue Grass.

The Lexington District Conference of the M. E. church was held here last week. About 40 preachers were present and a very large attendance of the laity. Considerable business was transacted and it was thought to be one of the best meetings of the body.

The public school, with Miss Lizzie Fogle principal and Mr. Bishop Wesley assistant, began here Monday. The schools in Casey have opened with encouraging prospects for good work.

Several from this part attended the South Kentucky Association at Eubanks Tuesday and Wednesday of last week. There were many items of business interest to the deputation looking after and some good preaching during the session. The body represents nearly 2,000 communicants. The next meeting will be held with Mt. Salem church in Lincoln county early in August next.

We regret to note the death of our good friend and former neighbor, Mr. Green Perkins, at his home on Buck Creek last week. He served in the Mexican war and when the battles had all been fought, returned to his home to become one of the best citizens. Potomac county ever had. Peace to his memory.

Charles DuBar and Mrs. Nora Bradfield, elopers from New Albany, who attempted suicide in Kansas City, want to come home and be "ood."

LIBERTY.

The Liberty cornet band is making music for the Russell Springs fair.

Congressman Boreing was killed to speak here during circuit court, but failed to put in an appearance.

A new telephone line connecting Liberty with Somerset by way of Yocumite, Humphrey, and Eubanks, has been put up. We can now say hello to nearly all the capitals of the surrounding counties.

Liberty will soon be benefited spiritually and otherwise by the addition of two new churches. The Methodist and Baptist denominations each have handsome brick houses in process of construction.

The recent change in the Middleburg mail route by which the Liberty subscribers receive their INTERIOR JOURNAL on Tuesdays and Fridays is hailed with delight by the numerous friends of that paper.

The date of the Liberty fair has been changed from the 18th, 19th and 20th to the 5th, 6th and 7th of September.

In President F. P. Combest, Vice President J. C. Coulter and Secretary A. P. Young, the association has a splendid set of officers and every effort will be made to make this the most successful fair ever held at Liberty.

Win H. Dorman, of Humphrey, is deputy circuit clerk to James Gibney. Miss Lizzie Phillips has returned from a three months visit to Chicago. Miss Haldee Rowe, of Jamestown, is with her sister, Mrs. W. C. Adams. James P. McGovern, a young attorney and Tammany politician of New York City, attended circuit court two or three days. Bruce Gibbins, of Knoxville, is visiting E. C. Moore.

J. P. Wilkinson has been selected as chairman of the county democratic committee in the place of W. P. Keeney, who resigned. Mr. Wilkinson is a tireless party worker and a better democrat could not be found. While Casey did not instruct for Gov. Beckham, his nomination is perfectly satisfactory to the democracy of Casey county, and they will support him as gracefully as if he was their original choice.

On Wednesday George O. Worthington was given two years in the penitentiary for forgery. The offense consisted in raising a receipt from Judge Telford from three to $13. Dick Burton was indicted for the killing of Mitche Holt. The case against McClelland Woodrum, for the killing of Marples, was continued. George Elmore was fined $125 for shooting and wounding Leslie Price, who insulted his wife. The grand jury failed to return an indictment against Sam Hamblin for the killing of Pratt. Court will probably close Saturday. Judge James Denton and E. O. Waddell, of Somerset, McClelland Johnson, of Lancaster, Bryant Stone and Libburn Phelps, of Jamestown, James Garnett, of Columbia, and H. S. Robinson, of Campbellsville, were some of the visiting attorneys.

KINGSVILLE.

John Will Godfrey came near being killed a few days ago by a falling tree. Charley Newland sustained a severe injury recently, which resulted in a broken leg.

Misses Kline and Lucille Johnson are back from Junction City, where they have been spending a delightful week with Miss Katherine Wells. Miss Heila Johnson has returned from a pleasant visit to Miss Wells and also McKinney friends. Miss Ella Carey has gone to Lebanon Junction, where she will make a protracted visit with relatives. Mrs. T. H. Johnson and baby have returned from a visit to Mrs. Hobbie and other relatives at Lexington. The family of Dr. M. Thompson are visiting relatives at Woodstock. Miss Gertrude Pennybaker has returned from a short visit to her sister, Mrs. Dan Duane, at Somerset. Mrs. B. C. Pennybaker was called to Chattanooga Tuesday, owing to the death of her brother-in-law, John McIsaac. Mrs. Robin Rigney has been threatened with typhoid fever, but is now improving. Others who are suffering from that disease are: Messrs. Frank Petty, Aaron Wright, Hedge and Denny. The delightful rains we have been having lately will doubtless improve the condition of the fever cases. Jesse Walter and Miss Annie Walter were the recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Walter. Tom Alford is suffering from mental troubles, caused, it is thought, by the intense heat. He is under close surveillance. It is not known yet whether or not he will be sent to an asylum.

MATRIMONIAL.

Thomas H. Orent, of Waynesburg, and Miss Mary Bastin, of Mt. Salem, were married at the court-house yesterday by Judge James P. Bailey, who Mr. Cleo Reynolds says, performed a fine ceremony.

There were 70 marriages among the 15,000 excursionists to St. Joseph, Mich., Sunday. So far this season 800 runaway couples have been married there and the clerk has taken in $4,000 in license fees.

Mrs. Nannie E. Hodge, divorced wife of S. Woodson Hodge, of Lily, and H. C. Snodgrass, of Central City, Neb., were married at the residence of D. S. Woodard at London. The bride's maiden name was McHargue, and she and Hodge were divorced by a judgment of the Laurel circuit court. Later they were again married. They lived together for a short while, and for the second time they were divorced. Hodge had, previous to marrying the present Mrs. Snodgrass, been the husband of her elder sister, from whom he was divorced. After his second divorce from his second wife he married a third sister, who now has a suit pending against him for divorce in the Clark circuit court. It is stated that it was Hodge's intention to allow his present wife to secure a divorce so that he might marry her sister, Nannie, for the third time. But his plans miscarried.

DUNCAN-BALLOU.—Mr. John L. Duncan, a prominent attorney of Toledo, O., and Miss Angie Ballou, were married at 10:30 Wednesday morning at the bride's pretty country home, her father, Eld. Joseph Ballou, officiating. There were no attendants and only a few immediate friends of the family were present. The parlor was beautifully decorated and the bride, attired in a blue cloth suit, showed to her very best advantage. She is an elegant young lady, highly accomplished and will prove a helpmeet fond and true. The groom is a fine gentleman and a good lawyer. He formerly lived at Clifton Forge, Va., where he met Miss Ballou, who taught there. After the marriage a delightful breakfast was elegantly served and the bridal party drove to Stanford and took the train for the North and Northeast, where they will remain some time before going to their home in Toledo. Mrs. Curry, a sister of the groom, accompanied him and attended the wedding.

POLITICAL.

The last Congress appropriated the enormous sum of $710,150,822.88 during its last session.

The Third district republican convention at Bowling Green nominated J. McKenzie Moss for Congress.

Gov. Beckham has called an extra session of the Legislature for Aug. 28 to consider the "modification or amendment of the existing laws regulating elections in this State."

The Brown convention at Owensboro adopted resolutions pledging support to Bryan, Stevenson and Yerkes and unanimously nominated Wm. Lynch, of Hopkins county, for Congress.

Judge D. L. Snodgrass has formally withdrawn from the race for United States Senator in Tennessee. He says that his views have been misunderstood and misrepresented.

It has been discovered at Frankfort that republican Superintendent of Public Instruction W. J. Davidson made no report of the work of his department last year as required by law.

"I helped elect the republican party," said ex-Gov. Boutwell in a speech at Indianapolis, "a party at that time of justice, principle and honesty. I now believe it is a party of injustice and oppression and I will help to destroy it."

At Chicago and return, Monon Route. Account 31th National Encampment, G. A. R., the Monon Route will sell tickets from Louisville, to Chicago and return from Aug. 25 to 26 inclusive, at $6. Tickets will be good returning until Aug. 31. Upon payment of 50c in Chicago limit of tickets will be extended to Sept. 30. The rate from all points in Kentucky will be 10c per mile from starting point to Louisville and return with $6 added. For full particulars, map, time schedule, etc., confer with local agent or address E. H. Bacon, district passenger agent, Louisville.

A NIGHT OF TERROR. A awful anxiety was felt for the widow of the brave General Rufus H. Machias, Me., when the doctors said she could not live till morning. Write Mrs. S. H. Lincoln, who attended her that fearful night. "All thought she was dead from pneumonia, but she begged for Dr. King's New Discovery, saying it had more than once saved her life, and had cured her of Consumption. After three small doses she slept easily all night, and in further use completely cured her." This marvelous medicine is guaranteed to cure all Throat, Chest, and Lung diseases. Only 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Penny's drug store.

What most people want is something mild and gentle, when in need of a physician. Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets fill the bill to a dot. They are easy to take and pleasant in effect. For sale by Craig & Hocker, Druggists.

JOINING by the timber seeking their nomination for Congress, it is evident that the republicans have not the faintest hope of carrying this district.

A lame shoulder is usually caused by rheumatism of the muscles, and may be cured by a few applications of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. For sale by Craig & Hocker, Druggists.

IN NEIGHBORING COUNTIES.

Miss Lucy Marshbank died at Lowell of typhoid fever, aged 50.

A postoffice has been established at Basell, Adair county, with C. C. Conner postmaster.

George West & Son, of Danville, got the contract to build the $10,000 Baptist church in their town.

Miss Lydia B. Harlan, youngest daughter of Dr. W. B. Harlan, of Boyle, died Wednesday night after a brief illness.

The body of John Hunter, a Scotchman, was found on the railroad track at Lily. Evidence goes to show that he had been murdered and robbed.

It is said that 50 per cent of the Negroes on Battle Row are addicted to the use of cocaine and great quantities of the drug are sold. It is cheaper than whiskey or morphine, and, as one over said, "It simply carries me to heaven, and there's no bad feeling when I wake up from the dream."—Central Record.

Maj. J. A. Brents, who had been in bad health for over two years, is dead at Albany. He was born in Clinton county and had served as a representative in the Legislature, as a member of the last constitutional convention and as county clerk. He gained his military title in the Union army, having been an officer in Wolford's cavalry.

In his resignation as editor of the Richmond Climax, our friend, Clarence R. Woods, says in part: "Whenever a newspaper knows the truth and fears to tell it, he is a coward and should be discharged. Whenever an editor knows the truth and wants to tell it because the public is vitally interested in it, he ought to resign when he is not allowed to tell the truth as he understands it and is willing to be responsible for it. I resign my position of editor of this paper for that reason."

While the Water & Light organ, the Register, is busily engaged in its defense, the Climax is, for some cause or other, forbidden to publish what I know to be the truth in regard to the Water & Light Company. Thus, while this recent company has an organ, the public is denied a hearing. I will not submit to dictation from it. I prefer my self-respect and independence to a $6 position to which I have devoted my heart and soul since the hour I accepted it four years ago."

A MINISTER'S GOOD WORK.

"I had a severe attack of bilious colic, got a bottle Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, took two doses and was entirely cured," says Rev. A. A. Power, of Emporia, Kan. "My neighbor across the street was sick for over a week, had two or three bottles of medicine from the doctor. He used them for three or four days without relief, then called in another doctor who treated him for some days and gave him no relief, so discharged him. I went over to see him next morning. He said his bowels were in a terrible fix, that they had been running off so long that it was almost bloody. I asked him if he had tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and he said, 'No.' I went home and brought him my bottle and gave him one dose; told him to take another dose in fifteen or twenty minutes if he did not find relief, but he took no more and was entirely cured. I think it the best medicine I have ever tried." For sale by Craig & Hocker, Druggists.

This is Al Berry's year for an accounting. Westover and Eubank gave the Tall Sycamore a touching up at Williamstown and the crowd had to be quieted before it would allow fiery reply. At this distance it looks pretty certain that our long legged friend has taken his last outing with the Rivers and Harbors Committee and that his next excursion will be a private affair of his own to select a good mooring place along the banks of a certain salt and classic stream.—Louisville Times.

If you have a baby in the house you will wish to know the best way to check any unusual looseness of the bowels, or diarrhoea so common to small children. O. P. M. Holliday, of Denning, Ind., who has an eleven months' old child, says: "Through the months of June and July our baby was teething and took a running off of the bowels and sickness of the stomach. His bowels would move from five to eight times a day. I had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy in the house and gave him four drops in a teaspoonful of water and he got better at once." For sale by Craig & Hocker, Druggists.

The healthiest spot in the whole world is Aumore, a French village containing 40 people. Twenty-eight of the inhabitants are over 80 years of age, and three have passed a century. There are no graves in the local cemetery, and the oldest inhabitant can not remember seeing a funeral.

In the Ballard circuit court at Wickliffe, Charles B. Barnes was given a 10 years' term in the State penitentiary and E. Mike Doyle, alias Conley, was sentenced to four years. Both men pleaded guilty to robbing the Illinois Central express train near Wickliffe last month.

Mr. W. H. McCormack, a former well-known citizen of Shelby county, died at Columbus, Ga.

IN THE VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS.

COLD SULPHUR SPRINGS, Aug. 15.—The Virginians certainly have made it hot for us since we came among them. The torrid conditions have been absolutely unbearable, steamrolling hot days followed by nights scarcely less intense. The mercury rarely descends to below 90 and Sunday I saw it 106 in the shade, and in the country. Dry as it is, vegetation can not withstand such heat and the trees even are showing its effects. I thought that the hottest place this side of the one that Igersoll denied existed, but which has been found out to be a real burning reality, was in the press and engine room of the INTERIOR JOURNAL office, but that is a cold storage inner compartment compared with everywhere here. It is simply terrific and the signal service man promises no relief soon. In fact he says it is too hot to raise and until it does the atmosphere will continue to be oppressive. Many prostrations are reported and some deaths have resulted from the intensity of the heat. Such a warm reception as we have had was too much for me, so we had away to seek a mountain nook, where heat and sun-strokes are unknown and shade and breezes have no end.

So here we are at Cold Sulphur Springs in the Virginia mountains, which are famed for their health-giving and invigorating resorts. It is not so aristocratic as the White Sulphur, but a day here is worth more to a worn out man or suffering child than a month there, where fashion and frivolity reign supreme. This is a veritable rest resort and the seventh heaven for children. It is in Rockbridge county and the centre of a group of the most celebrated springs in the State, noted for its summer resorts. The surroundings are most picturesque and the location as romantic as one could wish. Enveloped by mountains which rise almost to the sky, its large hotel and long rows of cottages are arranged with a view to furnishing the greatest comfort and the object of the management, which is fully attained, is to furnish the best accommodations at a figure within the reach even of an impecunious newspaper scribbler. The water is strongly sulphur and bubbles from the rocks as cold as ice. It is clear as a crystal, sparkling with gases, and being light and pleasant, large quantities can be drunk without causing fullness or over satiety. There is a prevalent idea that Kentuckians do not drink water, but I am showing the guests here as much as I can that it is a slander of malicious and evil propense.

"This is a veritable paradise for children and they are here without end. There are all sorts and sizes, good children, if there are any such, and bad children till you can not rest. It would look like an orphan asylum, except that the mothers give the little creatures some attention. They grow and thrive here in the cool shade and it is a real pleasure to see them enjoy themselves fighting and scratching and in the numerous other ways known to children.

The famous Goshen Pass, through which the waters of James River find their way to the sea, is near here, and its scenery is as wild and magnificent as a painter ever dreamed of. The mountains reach almost to the sky and with the sparkling waters dashing and splashing at their base and fall in cascades from their summits, a picture is made well worth the trip to see.

I haven't been here long enough to get acquainted, but I learn that there are a great many excellent people here, including Gov. O'Farrell and family of Virginia, and others as distinguished. Those who seek rest and recuperation come here, while those out for fun go to the "White" and the other resorts more adapted to the purpose, though what one wants more than can be found here, is more than I can explain, as all the new and old amusements can be had from bowling to golf. In years long ago, I spent some of my happiest moments here, which this visit recalls with vividness and pleasure. Before I knew what love really was, I thought I loved "a maiden fair to see," who was spending a dreamy summer here. She said she loved me too, but as she afterwards married another fellow and is now the mother of his seven children, I suppose she too only thought she did. But, even if we were mistaken, it was a delightful delusion and one that gave me great joy then and many pleasant memories now, though I doubt if she with her many cares ever has time to give it a thought.

There never was such a crowd at the Virginia mountain resorts as there is now. Every one of the dozens of more or less noted ones are packed and jammed. The fearful heat has done the work and the springs men are catching the good of the ill wind which blows only a hot blast to other people. There are over 200 people here and the cry is still they come.

Amid pleasures present and joys past, it did not fail to recur to me many times yesterday that it was county court in Stanford and that I ought to have been there helping the boys. Instead of possessing my soul in peace and resting my body in ease at a watering place. In the 25 years that I have lived in Stanford, however, it is the first I have missed, as the few visits I have made were always arranged with a view not to be absent on that day. A perusal of the last several INTERIOR JOURNALS has convinced me that I am not near so necessary to its well being as I may have thought I was and that they can get along about as well without as with me. It is for that reason that I have stayed away longer than I expected to and would stay much longer, but for annoying libel suits and other vexations that beset a man who tries to hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may. As God is my witness, I never published a malicious item in my life and yet three several times I have had to answer to libel suits for damages. Not one of them has amounted to more than a little vexation and a lawyer's fee and if justice prevails, as I am sure it will, the one on hand will go the same way.

I have just received the last INTERIOR JOURNAL and for the sake of historical accuracy, desire to say that I wrote "much," not most of Richmond was burned after the evacuation, which shows how much difference a little word may make.

While in Richmond the other day I paid a visit to the Confederate White House, the home of President Jefferson Davis during the war, now used as a Confederate Museum. It is filled with relics of the civil conflict and is one of the most interesting places that the son of a Confederate soldier, like myself, could visit. It is in charge of the United Daughters of the Confederacy and is presided over by a sweet faced, soft voiced lady, who though past her prime, is still a very handsome woman and who seemed to take pleasure in explaining the exhibits to me. Splendid portraits of Jefferson Davis and other prominent Confederates, including Gen. John B. Gordon, adorn the walls, while cabinets contain uniforms, swords and other belongings of Lee, Jackson and many other of the gallant men, who fought through the bloody war for the cause they loved. In the lawn in front of the imposing four story building is the main propeller shaft of the Merrimack, which in 1862 and in Hampton Roads did up the Monitor, a U. S. fleet, after one of the severest naval battles of modern times. Many articles in the building help to convey a slight idea of the hardships and privations that the noble men in gray endured, especially during the last days of the Confederacy, and stand as living monuments to their indomitable spirits. They make a man think more of his kind and cause him to feel a greater veneration and loftier admiration of the men who fought, bled and died for what they believed to be right. To them and the few of those who remain of the horrors of '61-'65 be all honor and glory here and hereafter.

THE republican organs show symptoms of hydropolia over the new provision of North Carolina's constitution, which disfranchises the Negro to a large extent, not on account of color or previous condition of servitude, but solely on the ground of ignorance and predict that this action, heretofore taken by some and contemplated by other Southern States, will eventually result in the enactment of a National election law by Congress in the shape of a force bill. Why is all of this abuse heaped on the Southern States and nothing said about the historic Commonwealth of Massachusetts, which has for years had a similar provision in its constitution which was substantially copied by the erring Southern states as well as by some of those of the North? If those who follow a bad example are to be chastised, the one who sets it should not go unpunished.

If our memory serves us correctly, the horrible doctrine of secession also originated in the neighborhood of Massachusetts. It had 12 delegates in the famous Hartford convention of 1814, which convened pursuant to a resolution of its Legislature and its illustrious son, George Cabot, was its presiding officer. Of the resolutions adopted by this convention an eminent authority says: "They are of interest as showing that secession was contemplated in New England at an early date in our history."

There is also a well authenticated tradition that the sanctified timbers of the Mayflower were worn out in the African slave trade. In addition to the high crimes named, Massachusetts is guilty of first importing the Australian ballot system of voting into this country. The mad organs should turn their batteries on the Old Bay State.

JOHN M. PALMER, who played decoy duck in 1896, knowing that the people can not be fooled again, advises democrats to vote straight for McKinley. But democrats do not harken any more to the antiquated individual, who has boxed every point of the political compass and who has long outlived his usefulness, if it ever existed.

A PERSON with a mild case of color blindness couldn't tell a Brown democrat from a black republican.

THE republican campaign committee has issued a document to the old soldiers to show what that party has done for them in the way of pensions and to convince them that the only hope of a further raid on the treasury lies in electing their National ticket. The paper contains some startling and interesting facts. For instance during the 12 years immediately succeeding the war the total expenditures for pensions were $375,000,000. In the three years that McKinley has been president $420,000,000 have been paid for pensions and 35 years after the war there are 991,529 pensioners on the rolls. The grand total of pension payments to date reaches the almost fabulous sum of two billions, six hundred millions of dollars. The republican managers point with great pride to the severe drain on the treasury, but people who pay the taxes and get no benefit from the pensions will likely vote for a reform.

THE Rough Rider is the name of a paper just established at Pennville, Ind. "edited," it says, "by the Hon. Charles Finley, ex-Secretary of State of Kentucky, but now a fugitive from justice, and a resident of the loyal State of Indiana." It is composed mostly of editorials devoted to every phase of Kentucky politics, except the contempt of Kentucky republicans for legal procedure; assassination; the intimidation of the General Assembly by lawless hordes; fugitives from justice; governors perjurying themselves in refusing to comply with regulations; originating conspiracies and when about to be detected skipping out and leaving fellow-conspirators with the hemp to stretch. We hope to have the views of the Rough Rider on these questions at an early date.

THE Brown democrats held a conference in Louisville Wednesday at "Cave of Winds" Sweeney in the chair. There were 26 in attendance and we hope and believe that this number includes all of them left in the State. All made speeches of course, and nearly all said that the republican party represented the issues for which they are contending. This statement is not published as news, for everybody has known it from the first, and being admitted by them we are at a loss to understand why they persist in defiling the good name of democracy by claiming to be of that persuasion.

SINCE our last issue the jury was instructed in the Powers case after much wrangling over the law, and the speaking has been in progress. Owens, Campbell, Brown and Franklin are to speak yet. All of the speeches so far have been highly complimented. Yousey has had a high fever and it was thought for awhile that typhoid was developing, but his physicians now think that he will be well enough to proceed with his trial.

NOW that an extra session of the Legislature has been called for action on the election law, we sincerely hope that the desired end may be speedily attained, without the members dividing into hostile factions as to the best means of doing so. Both parties agree that the present law is not satisfactory and that it should be supplanted by one perfectly fair and non-partisan. Under these circumstances there should be no trouble in attaining the desired result.

HAVING failed to answer the questions recently propounded in these columns, probably because they were too hard, will not Mr. Yerkes now favor us with a response to the easy one, suggested in Judge Breckinridge's speech? If Taylor was fairly elected governor, is not Mr. Yerkes acting as badly as Mr. Beckham in trying to get the office before the expiration of Taylor's term?

WILLIAM L. TAYLOR is the nominee of the Indiana republicans for attorney general. It is to be hoped that he will bring as many trials and tribulations as did one William S. Taylor, formerly nominee of the same party for that office in Kentucky.

THE Lexington Herald is demolishing (?) Bryan's speech of acceptance at the rate of two columns of editorial to two lines of speech. At this rate the task will not be completed until after the expiration of Bryan's first term as president.

A NUMBER of Ohio people committed suicide on account of the excessive heat. It has hitherto been the universal belief that people who could stand to live in Ohio could stand anything else.

INDIANA now bears the same relation to Kentucky that Canada did to the United States before the extradition treaty with Great Britain—an asylum for its law-breakers.

THE Tennis Club was delightedly entertained by Miss Nan Newland at her residence on the Somerset pike Tuesday evening. "DENNIS," the old family horse of Hon. H. C. Warren, died Wednesday at the ripe old age of 32. His life was as active and useful as it was long. He served the Commonwealth one term as the transport of its attorney, and has led the charge in many a hard fought political battle. Here's hoping that he may occupy a high seat in the horse heaven, so beautifully described by Hro. Barnes.

PULLIN'S COW.—D. C. Pullins has a cow that will eat anything in the shape of a raw or piece of paper that she can get to. She will quit eating corn any time if she can get a newspaper. Dave concluded he would try her, and brought out a dozen or more of newspapers and gave them to her one at a time. She devoured them as fast as he could hand them to her, until she got to the last one. She would roll it around in her mouth and then spit it out. Dave said: "Drot your old soul I have got you full at last, have I?" and gave it to her again, but she wouldn't eat it. He looked at the paper and saw it was the INTERIOR JOURNAL, and it was so full of pure democracy and grit that she could not chew it.—Paint Lick Cor. Central Record.

IT is with profound regret that we learn of the death of that splendid gentleman, Mr. A. E. Logan, of Hoyie. He was the soul of honor, a gentleman in all the word implies, a man among men and a credit to mankind. Mr. Logan had been ill of flux for several days and skilled physicians and loving hands did all in their power to save him, but without avail. He was 73 years of age and as brave and gallant an ex-Confederate soldier as ever fought for any cause. There never lived a better democrat than Mr. Logan, who spent both his time and money freely for the good cause. He is the last of three brothers, all of whom were grand men and typical Kentuckians. He was second sergeant of Co. A, 6th Ky. Cavalry, Col. Grigsby's regiment, Morgan's command. He was born in this county and his comrades here will attend the burial this afternoon in a body.

THE biggest public sale of real estate that has been made in Lincoln county for some time was that of W. H. and John S. Murphy, executors of their father, Squire John S. Murphy, which took place in front of the courthouse, beginning at 1 P. M. Wednesday. The splendid farm of 200 acres on the Hustonville pike was bought by W. H. Murphy at $59.10; John Murphy got the 40 acre pasture in the suburbs of town at $60.20 and W. H. Murphy the store room occupied by Warren & Shanks for $1,826; the old Christian church and lot on Depot street went to T. M. Goodknight for $1,170, as did the Monroe Smith tract of 400 acres of knob land on Green river at $50; the 300 acres of knob land near Halls Gap Mr. Goodknight got 100 acres at $1.05 and W. H. Murphy the remainder at 25c. The prices were all satisfactory and the sale amounted to about $25,000.

THE Sock Special at Mr. W. B. McRoberts' by the Earnest Workers of the Presbyterian church last night was a most enjoyable affair. The amount of money made was $11.55.

SEVERAL Sundays ago a colored church at Hustonville ran out of wine for sacramental purposes and sent a brother to a saloon for some. He got whisky either by mistake or otherwise, and the members slipped it with as fervent a prayer as they ever took underforned wine.
A REBEKAH LODGE was organized here yesterday afternoon by State Organizer, Mrs. Ella Carr, of Ashland. Mr. A. C. Sine was made Noble Grand, Mrs. Peter Straub, Jr., Vice Grand, Miss Maggie Lewis, Secretary, and Mrs. John H. Woner, Treasurer. The meetings will be held in Odd Fellows' Hall on the second and fourth Friday afternoons. Fidelity Lodge, No. 11, was the name decided upon.

DEATH.—Mary Elizabeth, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. M. Bright, died Wednesday morning at an early hour, after an illness covering almost its entire life. Never strong, the little thing yielded to a complication of diseases, including malarial fever, and now a loving father and mother are almost heart-broken over the loss. Seven short months the little angel was loaned to them—just long enough to learn to worship the bit of humanity. Those who have never felt similar losses can not truly sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. Bright, but their friends here and elsewhere sorrow with them in this their hour of trouble. After a short service at the grave yesterday afternoon by Rev. F. W. Allen, all that was mortal of the little sufferer was laid to rest in Buffalo cemetery.

THE charming entertainment given by Miss Luella Cooper to the members of the Tennis Club Wednesday evening was attended by nearly all of the members and heartily enjoyed. Assisted by M. Shelton Sautley, Miss Cooper received her guests and with the assistance of Misses Sallie and Jessie Deane Cook she royally entertained them. Refreshments were served in the grape arbor at 10:30, after which some time was spent in tripping the light fantastic, conversing, &c. Soon after the arrival of the young folks cards were given them bearing pictures of advertisements and some 30 minutes were spent in guessing what the pictures represented. Misses Virginia Warren and Ed Hale won the prize for the best guess—a large basket of fruit—and Misses Nellie Hopper and George D. Florence the booty—a cyming filled with stick candy. The yard and arbor were made almost as light as day with Japanese and other lanterns.

CHURCH MATTERS.

George A. Klingman is holding an interesting meeting at the Church of Christ, to which the public is cordially invited.
The meeting at the Methodist church conducted by Revs. Leonidas Knolsen, of Lancaster, and W. M. Britt, the pastor, continues to grow in interest. Good crowds attend each service and the sermons are able and full of sound gospel truths. The singing is an especial feature. The meeting will continue through this week and perhaps longer.

HUBBLE.

Geo. Wood sold Lewis Doty some stock hogs at 5c. R. L. Hubble sold Jos. Wilmont a bunch of ewes at $4. M. B. Eubanks sold to John Paul, of Middleburg, a pair of young mules for $275. J. C. Eubanks bought some 1,000 pound cattle of L. C. King at 4c and some of H. W. Glens at 4c.
Lightning burned a hay stack for A. L. Spoonamore. Mrs. Samantha Hubble is visiting friends here. Mrs. A. L. Spoonamore has gone to Science Hill to see her sick niece. R. L. Hubble, Mack Eubanks and B. W. Glens took in the Lexington fair Thursday. John Bourne and wife returned to Bellflower, Ill., Thursday, after a month's stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Anderson.

ROYAL Baking Powder

The strongest, purest, most efficient and wholesome of leavening agents. Not lowest in price, yet the most economical; indispensable to all who appreciate the best and most healthful food.
Our country is enjoying prosperity almost unsurpassed in its history.
For every one there is money enough to buy that to eat which is pure, sound, good, wholesome.
Why should we use cheap, impure, unhealthful articles of food? There is no economy in them; they endanger the health, they may cost life. There are reported almost daily cases of sickness caused by eating cake, puddings or biscuit made with the cheap, alum baking powders.
In all articles for food buy and use only the best. The good health of the family is of first consideration.

Alum is used in many baking powders because it makes them cheap. It costs less than two cents a pound. Alum is a corrosive poison. Think of feeding it to children! Yet the manufacturers of well-known alum powders are actually denying that their goods contain it.

An effort is being made by his old company in Wayne county to collect a sufficient sum to erect a monument over the late Capt. B. E. Roberts. He certainly deserves this recognition.
Gov. Beckham extended clemency in the case of Samuel Patrick, of Johnson county, who was serving a term of two years in the penitentiary for manslaughter. Patrick was sent up in October, 1899, for the murder of Hilleck Rice, at Paintsville, earlier in the same year. Patrick is an invalid.

The Advocate says that Quinine S., 2:24, was killed by lightning on the farm of his owner, A. W. Smith. Quinine was by Abdallah Mambreno out of the famous mare Ella Hopkins and the sire of the great Geneva S., 2:19, and Mattie H., 2:11.

A correspondent of the Chicago Times-Herald comments playfully upon the latest slang phrase that has become current in New York society. He notes that if one wears a shirt that has plenty of color, his friends say "it's fierce." If a young lady comes out with snowy shoulders and diamond tiara, her admirers stand off and whisper, one to another: "Isn't she fierce?" If a horse shows up well on the track the sportsman along the word that "Whirlwind is fierce to-day." The golfer who succeeds in winning five out of six holes from Col. Bogey is "fierce," and when the haly is brought out all dressed in its downiest coat and softest laces its beautiful auntie holds up her hands and exclaims: "Oh, isn't the darling fierce!" Everything in New York is "fierce" just now. The new steamship Deutschland, which has broken the maiden record across from Plymouth, is "fierce," young Richard Croker's $20,000 bull pup is "fierce," Mrs. Herman Oelrichs' new automobile is "fierce," little Willie Vanderbilt's duck trousers are "fierce," and the decorations at the recent Havemeyer wedding were "fierce." If you have a desire to shine before men as one who is thoroughly up to the present you must forget to say "wouldn't that jar you?" and express the opinion "that it's fierce."

Anyone who is not at all familiar with the feelings of the plain people must be aware that, as a rule, they are more willing to be sent, in case of sickness, to a hospital managed by a private corporation than to one managed by the public, writes E. P. Wheeler, in Atlantic. Yet a vigorous agitation to abolish all public aid to private charities has been lately set on foot by many well-meaning citizens, who, it seems to me, look at the subject too exclusively from a theoretical standpoint. On the other hand, as the supervisor of Catholic charities in New York city has very well put that side of the question, the "private institutions give the use of their grounds, buildings and equipments to the public without charge, and in addition do the work cheaper than it could be done in public institutions."

At Halstead, Kan., an interesting series of experiments in wheat growing is being conducted. Last fall about 150 varieties of wheat, selected from all over the world, were seeded, and about 80 of these were in good condition during the spring. It is desired not only to determine which of these foreign wheats will do well in Kansas and similar climates in this country, but an effort will be made to improve each variety by grafting and cross-fertilization. New varieties will be produced having the better qualities of both parents. It will require several years of propagation in the same soil to determine whether the product is valuable or otherwise.

American athletes have demonstrated conclusively their superiority over all foreigners that the surprise of European experts must have been as keen as when the American navy showed what it could do, at Manila and Santiago. The American is coming to the front in these days in many lines of activity and Europe doesn't appear to like the appearance of its lusty western rival.

It is always difficult to secure a quorum in the New York city council, says a local exchange. At a recent meeting the necessary number of members failed to attend, and the president was about to send the sergeant-at-arms after some absentees, when it was learned that the officer named was himself absent, and that he had not attended a meeting for months.

Do not buy land on which the trees are small, and of not very thick growth, advises an agricultural exchange. You will see that men who are experienced in buying farming land always go on this principle. Land thickly covered with timber indicates good land; where the trees are scattered and not very tall, indicates poor land.

In Ellsworth, Me., last week a hire of Italian bees swarmed and alighted on the fence surrounding an enclosure in which were an old turkey and her young brood. The mother turkey attacked the bees, which responded with such vigor that in less than 20 minutes the old turkey and all her young ones were dead.

Several Chinamen in large cities have been badly treated recently by hoodlums, and as a consequence in some localities have become very much scared. The laundry men everywhere take every opportunity to proclaim that they have neither relationship nor sympathy with the loxers.

Some phases of the rivalry existing between Kansas towns are highly amusing. An Atchison paper explains that Topeka is holding her horse show only at night because the horses are engaged in hauling delivery wagons during the day.

In Philadelphia a case has just been finished concerning a diamond, which case caused two years' litigation in the law courts, sent four persons to the penitentiary for long terms, and has cost big sums for lawyers' fees.

Why They Quit. Mr. Billus—I am glad to see, Matilda, that you and your woman friends have quit taking flowers, novels and fruit to that wife-murderer in the jail! It was about time you got over being such sentimental idiots.

Mrs. Billus—Yes, and besides, it is now generally believed that the man is nothing but an impostor, and didn't kill her, after all—N. Y. World.

Easy. "I found a four-leaf clover yesterday while out walking with a young woman," said the breezy young person. "Do you consider that a sign of luck?" "Emphatically," answered the man who had his coat off and was toiling. "If being able to wander around hunting four-leaf clovers with a pretty girl isn't luck, I don't know what is."—Washington Star.

Meant Just What He Said. Mrs. Smythe—What is poor Mrs. Perkins doing to do now that her husband is dead? Smythe—Take in boarders. Mrs. Smythe—No? Why, she can't cook? Smythe—Precisely! Didn't I say that she was going to take them in?—Harlem Life.

Effect of Paternal Example. Mr. Tucker, who sometimes goes gunning, was trying to teach Tommy the meaning of the word "brace" as applied to game. "Now, Tommy," he said, "if you should go hunting and kill 20 pheasants, for instance, how many would you say you had bagged?" "Fifty," replied Tommy.—Chicago Tribune.

Stickler for Propriety. Tess—She is the most precise and circumspect girl I ever met. Jess—In what way, for instance? Tess—She had been lounging about in a loose wrapper to-day, when she suddenly remembered that she must write to her fiancé. So she went and got dressed up before she did it.—Philadelphia Press.

The Early Arrival. And still Mr. Stave remained in the parlor. "Edith!" called a gruff voice from upstairs. "Tell Mr. Stave if he meets the milkman as he goes out to order two quarts for me." This had the desired effect.—Chicago Daily News.

Knew Something About It. "You have this word wrong," said the man who had been dictating. "I said 'martin', and you have written it 'martin'!" "Oh, I guess that's all right," answered the stenographer, with conviction. "I've been married myself."—Chicago Post.

Slow Work. "Maria, you let that young Bohemian stay last night until one o'clock." "But, mamma, you told me I must give him time to propose." "But five hours!" "Why, mamma, you know he stutters."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Contradiction. "Do you believe every man has his price?" "No, sir," answered Senator Sorghum; "that's a libel on human nature. Every one has his price, but a man as rich as he doesn't need any more money."—Washington Star.

Acceptable. "Where are you going, my pretty maid?" "I'm going a-wheeling, sir," she said. "May I go with you, my pretty maid?" "Yes, rubber is good for three," she said. —N. Y. World.

LETTING WELL ENOUGH ALONE

Customer—You enlarge photographs, don't you? Photographer—Yes, madam. Customer—Well, I wish you'd enlarge this one, but you may leave the nose as it is!—Flegende Blätter.

The Danger. "It is a perfect little lamb." One often hears it said. And, many a time, the little lamb grows up to be a "million-head."—Radford Review.
